Capt. Dick Thinks the James D. Nicol Was Not Properly Loaded.

TUG PILOTS AS WITNESSES

Wreckage Picked Up by "The Evening World's " Tug Positively Identified.

DRUNKENNESS, SAYS HYDE.

Nicol's Captain Explains Why Passengers Were Drowned While the Crew Escaped.

The investigation to ascertain the causes leading to the wrecking of the tug James D. Nicol, was continued before Capt. James Fairchild and Thomas Barrett, of the Bureau of Inspection of Steam Vessels, at 10.30 o'clock this morning, in room 154 on the top floor of the Federal Building.

James C. Halpin, assistant superintendent of the Reeves Towing Company, five persons. My understanding is that he told me that there would be from forty to fifty people in the party."

The witness said that the only instructions given to the captain of the Nicol were to go to East Fifth street and take a party on board and collect $40. No instructions were given to the captain as to the number of people he "Did any of the officers of the Nicol report to you at any time that she was unseaworthy?"

Well, the passengers were all crowd-to one side of the tug, and when shipped a heavy sea, she was not to right herself." ed to one side of the tug, and when she shipped a heavy sea, she was not able to right herself."

"How did the passengers on the Bayre behave?"

"Admirably. They distributed themselves evenly over the tug."

"Do you think the Nicol would have done better with fewer people on board?"

"I can't say. I don't know how many she carried."

The witness said that the Sayre was heading for inside the Highland Lights.

Engineer Farrell stated further that there were no laidcations of the burst-here were no laidcations of the burst

"I can't say. I don't allow she carried.

The witness said that the Sayre was heading for inside the Highland Lights, and the Nicol was just ahead.

Capt. Philip Dick, pilot of the tug E. E. Evarts, said that he saw the Nicol founder. The sea was rought at the time, but he did not consider it in any way dangerous. He did not think any way dangerous.

The Evarts, which is $6.6 feet long, as against 76 feet for the Nicol, did not ship any water. The Nicol was from three to three and a half miles from land when she went down.

Capt. John Cutler, of the tug F. M. Two Hats Picked Up.

Vosburgh, testified that he did not consider the wind and sea high enough to have caused a tug to founder when the Nicol went down.

Nicol went down.

He would not have hesitated to have gone out with his tug to bring in a ship had it been necessary. He had always regarded the Nicol as perfectly sea-regarded the Nicol as perfectly seaworthy.

Capt. Robert Rogers, a licensed pilot and shipping agent, of 29 South street, testified that he had repeatedly examined
the Nicol and found her seaworthy.
James Reeves, agent of the Reeves Towing Company, also testified as to the seaworthiness of the Nicol. He said the Nicol was owned by Lena Reeves and John and James McCarthy.
Capt. John Morrow, of the Robert
Robertson, swore that he had known Capt. Hyde, of the Nicol, for a number of years. He regarded him as a capable and competent pilot. He had never known Capt. Hyde to take a drink.
Capt. C. Littlefield also gave Capt.
Hyde a good character, and said he regarded him as a competent pilot.
Capt. John Hyde was recalled at his own request to contradict some of the statements made by members of the Herring Fishing Club.
Capt. Hyde Blames the Drink.

Capt. Hyde Blames the Drink. "The members of the Club did not ask to weigh anchor, because the weather as threatening. One of the Club Com-littee came to me and wanted to know was threatening. One of the Club Committee came to me and wanted to know if I wouldn't take them up in the Horse-shoe, where the fishing was better.

"I taked the matter over with some of the Committee. Some wanted to go to Long Branch, but I refused on account of the wind. When the storm sprang up the Nicol was the first vessel in the neighborhood to get under way. Five minutes before the Nicol went down I did not think we were in any danger.

"How do you account for the fact that all of the crew were saved and such a large proportion of the passengers were lost?"

"Because the crew were sober and the passengers were drunk."

"Because the crew were sober and the passengers were drunk."

"Had you any instructions as to the umber of passengers you were to tendent of the Reeves Towing Company, was the first witness examined.

"I made the arrangements with Mr. Kirschner, of the Herring Fishing Club, for the use of the tug," said he.

"Then I understand that as to the overloading of the vessel you took no measures to see that no more than the number you were legally entitled to carry got on board?"

"No; I didn't count them. I didn't think that more than we had a right to carry would get on board."

The inquiry was adjourned until tomorrow morning, but resumed at 12.30 o'clock, when Deep-Sea Pilot Lemuel Kelly walked into Capt. Fairchild's office.

Kelly denied that he was employed as master pilot of the Nicol on the day of the disaster. He said he was the guest of Chief Engineer Farrell. He was in the pilot-house two minutes be-fore the tug went down. He did not give any advice to Capt. Hyde about going inside Sandy Hook.

"No, sir."

Capt. Joseph Slattery, pilot of the tug Robert H. Sayre, which was near the Nicol at the time of the disaster, testified as to the weather conditions.

"The squall raised a big sea and made it pretty had sailing at the time. There were ninety people on the Sayre. We picked up thirty-four of the survivors of the Nicol."

"As a pilot of experience, to what do you think the accident to the Nicol was due?"

All Crowded to One Side.

Capt. Fairchild said he expected to have his report ready in two or three days.

Master and Pilot George R. Mitchel, of the tug R. J. Moran, said that he was also outside the Hook on the day the Nicol went down. He did not see the Nicol went down. He did not see the Nicol with the time. His tug is smaller than the Nicol. He did not consider her in any danger.

It Wasn't Bad Weather.

The weather may have been a trifferough, but not what he would call bad.

has been feeling much more sympathy for France than for years past, and the set of his career as Chief Magistrate. It is announced this morning that the French Government has annulled the order, issued in April last, suspending the stipend of the Archbishop of Lyons and all arrears will be immediately paid to him. This, evidently, is another step towards conciliation with Rome. The first step was taken yesterday when Mgr. Ferrata, the Papal Nuncio, walked with only a silk skull-cap on his head from the Elysee Palace to the Cathedral of Notre Dame behind the remains of the late President of France.

Consequently, the regime of President Casimir-Perier opens the day after the funeral of his predacessor with improved relations with Germany and with the Vatican. Finally, the President's attendance at the funeral yesterday in defiance of precedent and Anarchy and his admirable bearing throughout the remonies have captured the heart of France.

Policeman John Moran, of the Oak street station, had a hard fight with Michael Gill, forty-four years old, of 192 South street, whom he arrested for assault on his wife.

Gill had unmercifully beaten his wife, who fied from the house for safety. She took refuge in the hall, and there she told Policeman Moran of the trouble. The policeman sent her upstairs to see if Gill had calmed down any. Gill again started in to beat her and chased her into the hallway with a butcher knife. Policeman Moran rushed in between the two, and in the struggle that followed Gill was badly cut on the left arm. Moran was nearly exhausted when help artived, it took four men to get Gill into the station. He was held in $1,000 bail for trial. His wife would not make a complaint.

Veteran of the War and Well Know in Local Politics.

Major Willard Bullard, chief of the Sanitary Police of the Board of Health, died at his home, 164 West Fortyeighth street, at 8.45 last night, after brief lilness. He was in the sixtleth year of his age, and had been attached to the Board of Health since 1884. Major Bullard was portly, and had suffered more or less from stomach complaint for several years. The ailment was not sufficiently severe to pre vent him from performing his official duties, and during the ten years of his neumbency, it is said, he was never a lay away from his desk until his last day away from his desk until his last illness.

A week ago Thursday he was taken suddenly ill after eating breakfast. The cause of his death is said to be heart failure superinduced by pneumonia.

He was a veteran of the late war, having served from the beginning to the end, under Gen. Graham. He was a member of the Masonic order and other societies.

Before entering the Health Department Major Bullard was a well-known figure in local politics. He was a Stalwart and was nicknamed "Blizzard" Bullard, because of his energetic and forceful style of oratory.

A short time previous to the last Presidential campaign he went over ? Tammany Hall with the stampede of other dissatisfied Republicans, and soon became a member of the General Committee.

It is said that he had a presentment that he would not live beyond his sixtleth year. He leaves a widow. The functal will probably be held Wednesday.
